what

why

Joe Najib's Making Good Presentations Great training gives its attendees a whole new perspective of what they can do with MS PowerPoint, one of the world's most used MS Office programs in the corporate & business world.

To produce powerful and effective presentation slides, one must realise that MS PowerPoint is, above all, a design tool that makes it easier to create presentations with.

The key formula is "creative manipulation" – on how to utilise PowerPoint's existing (and already familiar) functions by using unconventional methods and thinking approach, resulting in slide layouts and designs that break the dry, traditional norm & expectations.

"Some of the best ideas are so obvious, they're simply overlooked."

Presentation audiences have to use 500% more brain energy resource to consume information that are not optimally laid out on slides.

The way we design our content, slides, and presentations as a whole will have a cognitive and psychological impact on our audiences.

The methods and ideas shared in this training are based on design principals that optimise attention levels, which, in turn, can often result in positive and favourable outcomes.

ABOUT THE TRAINER

Ahmad Nafizul Maf'uz
Ahmad Najib aka

JOE NAJIB

Joe Najib is a senior advertising & marketing individual with over 20 years of experience in the communications industry, having worked for both local and multinational advertising agencies such as SearchGuru, ISC, Dentsu, Havas, TribalDDB and TBWA\Tequila, to name a few.

Joe has worked across various fields in the advertising spectrum —as an account management person, a digital marketing strategist, to heading a creative team. He also had a stint as the Head of Social Media at Hong Leong Bank, under its Digital Innovations team.

More significantly, Joe is known industry-wide for his ability to create stunning presentation documents and delivering them with flair, contributing to his 90% overall pitch-win-rate.

He now conducts PowerPoint presentation workshops and trainings full-time to MNCs, GLCs, and the general public. He also designs keynote addresses for some of the country's most celebrated CEOs and corporate figures.

key takeaways

A great presentation isn't just about good-looking slides; it happens when there's a great synergy between the presenter and the slides he/she projects.

MS PowerPoint should not be perceived as a program used merely to present data. It is a great design tool where one is able to apply his/her own creative expression, or reflect a brand's persona.

It is not so much about knowing the functions, more about what you can do with them. There will be tips, cheats and design trickery shared during the training that will leave you wondering why you've never thought about doing it.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Executives who are already familiar with MS PowerPoint but in search of new ways to jazz up their outputs and break conventional presentation barriers.

People in marketing, communications, sales, strategic planning, finance, human resource & talent management —any discipline that requires any form of reporting, proposing, or presenting content of any kind.
